

THE INTERNATIONAL PROFILER

This training programme is particularly relevant to managers working internationally, helping them to understand and develop their ability to succeed in other cultures and environments.

The International Profiler is a strategically designed tool that helps people adapt to working in a global environment.

Based on a framework of international competencies, managers are measured on 10 competencies, with 22 associated skills, attitudes and knowledge areas.

Format

Online psychometric profiling questionnaire of 30-40 minutes which generates a detailed report outlining where the individual places their energy and attention in the work place. This is supported by a 90-minute debrief and coaching session by an accredited trainer, leading to a personal development plan as an output.

Who should attend?

Managers who want to become more self aware and learn how to be able to adopt behavioural strategies appropriate for the particular intercultural context that they are currently working in – or that they will be working in.
